D. Disclosure of your information

We may disclose personal information to the following categories of recipients:

- our group companies: the information you provide to us will be held on our systems and may be accessed by or transferred to any entity in our corporate group, including any entity that acquires us or that we may acquire. This includes our staff working outside the UK and third parties, some of whom are located outside the European Economic Area or the UK (as applicable). Such third parties provide localised services and process information, fulfil orders and provide support services on our behalf.

- our service providers, professional advisers and to such other similar parties: as we consider necessary for the administration of the products and services, the website and related business, such as, handling order processing and shipments, providing technical support or conducting customer research.
- any competent law enforcement body, regulatory, government agency, court or other third party: where we believe disclosure is necessary (i) as a matter of applicable law or regulation, (ii) to exercise, establish or defend our legal rights, or (iii) to protect an individual's vital interests or those of any other person.
- to an actual or potential buyer (and its agents and advisers): in connection with any actual or proposed purchase, merger or acquisition of any part of our business, provided that we inform the buyer it must use personal information only for the purposes disclosed in this Privacy Policy.
- to any other person with your consent to the disclosure.

International data transfers

Personal information may be transferred to, and processed in, countries other than the country in which you are resident. These countries may have data protection laws that are different to the laws of your country (and, in some cases, may not be as protective). However, we will always take steps to ensure that your information is used by third parties in accordance with this privacy policy and that we comply with applicable legal requirements to ensure adequate protection for your information. For more information about the measures we have in place, please contact us.

E. What happens if personal information is not provided?

Where information is needed and personal information is not provided to us, use of our websites or our products and services may be restricted or impossible. For example, we need end user data to control security for our services and to authenticate your right to use our products and services.

F. Marketing

When we undertake marketing to subscribers, we may also have obligations under applicable privacy laws to obtain your consent or to offer you the option to opt-out of our marketing correspondence. We will comply with such laws where they apply. For our corporate customers, we generally do not need consent to market to you and we will offer a right to unsubscribe where that is appropriate.

G. Cookies and similar tracking technology

We use cookies and similar tracking technology (collectively, “Cookies”) to collect and use personal information. For further information about the types of Cookies we use, why, and how you can control Cookies, please see our Cookie Policy.

H. Security

We employ security measures to protect your information from access by unauthorised persons and against unlawful processing, accidental loss, destruction and damage. The security measures that we employ differ depending on the products and services that you use or the websites that you access. We use measures such as encryption where appropriate.

Where we have given you (or where you have chosen) a password or other authentication details which enable you to use our products and services or access certain parts of our website, you are responsible for keeping your password and other authentication details confidential.

Unfortunately, the transmission of information via the internet is not completely secure. Although we will do our best to protect personal information, we cannot guarantee the security of any information that you disclose online. You accept the inherent security implications of using the internet and we will not be responsible for any breach of security unless we have been in breach of applicable laws and then only to the limits set out in the terms and conditions for the Website.

Our websites may, from time to time, contain links to and from the websites of our partner networks, advertisers and affiliates. If you follow a link to any of these websites, please note that these websites have their own privacy policies/web site terms of use and we do not accept any responsibility or liability for these policies. Please check such policies before you submit any information to them.

I. Data retention

We will retain your information for as long as you continue to use the services and thereafter for a reasonable period or as long as the law requires. We may decide it is necessary to retain your information for the purpose of resolving disputes or payment issues, or because it is still useful to us to analyse your use of the Services.

When we have no ongoing legitimate business need to process personal information, we will either delete or anonymise it or, if this is not possible (for example, because personal information has been stored in backup archives), then we will securely store personal information and isolate it from any further processing until deletion is possible.

For more information about data retention practices, please contact us using the contact details at section K – “How to contact us” – below.

J. Data protection rights

- If you wish to access, correct, update or request deletion of their personal information, you can do so at any time by contacting us using the contact details provided at section K “How to contact us”.

- In addition, you can object to processing of your personal information, ask us to restrict processing of their personal information or request portability of their personal information. Again, they can exercise these rights by contacting us using the contact details provided at section K – "How to contact us" – below.
- Similarly, if we collect and process your personal information with your consent, then you can withdraw your consent at any time. Withdrawing your consent will not affect the lawfulness of any processing we conducted prior to your withdrawal, nor will it affect processing of your personal information conducted in reliance on lawful processing grounds other than consent.
- You have the right to opt-out of marketing communications we send at any time. This right can be exercised by clicking on the "unsubscribe" or "opt-out" link in the marketing e-mails we send. To opt-out of other forms of marketing (such as postal marketing or telemarketing), then please contact us using the contact details provided at section K – "How to contact us" – below.
- You have the right to complain to a data protection authority about our collection and use of personal information. For more information, please contact your local data protection authority.

We respond to all requests we receive from individuals wishing to exercise their data protection rights in accordance with applicable data protection laws. Certain rights will depend on our legal basis for using your personal information. For example, where we rely on legitimate interests to use your personal information, you will not have the right to request the portability of your personal information, but you will have the right to object to our use of it.

We may also have other grounds on which to refuse to comply with data subject requests, in accordance with data protection laws. We will communicate to you if we do not intend to comply with any requests that you make to exercise your data subject rights.

K. Changes to our Privacy Policy

When we update our Privacy Policy, we will take appropriate measures to inform you (where appropriate), consistent with the significance of the changes we make. We will obtain consent to any material Privacy Policy changes if and where this is required by applicable data protection laws.

You can see when this Privacy Policy was last updated by checking the "last updated" date displayed at the top of this Privacy Policy.
